Urrà Splints Kit is a immobilization set designed to help rescue workers to effectively stabilize suspected fractures of limbs on patients, reducing pain and risks of additional damage during pre hospital transport operations.

Its structure is made of a thin layer of aluminium and covered with expanded closed cell polypropylene, to prevent the absorption of fluids and blood. When it is longitudinally nerved, the splint becomes a semi-rigid support for the distal parts of the limbs. The surface is soft and sufficiently resistant to be re-washed and re-used over and over again.
